¹ "Professional codes of practice from regulatory bodies require health care workers who may have been infected with a serious communicable disease, in whatever circumstances, to promptly seek and follow confidential professional advice about the need to undergo testing. This requirement means that health care workers are under an ongoing obligation to seek professional advice about the need to be tested if they have been exposed to a serious communicable disease, obligating the need for repeat testing. This obligation equally applies to health care workers already in post." HSE HR Circular 12 2009
